ITINERARY

South Corsica: a mountain in the sea

Southern Corsica is a Mediterranean paradise of golden beaches, rugged mountains, and charming villages, offering a unique experience of nature, culture and gastronomy.

1963

Costa Smeralda: Immerse yourself in the epitome of luxury and natural beauty at Costa Smeralda, Sardinia.

It's a world-renowned gem, captivating visitors with its breathtaking beaches, crystal-clear waters, and lush Mediterranean landscapes. Renowned for its jet-set allure, this coastal haven exudes elegance and sophistication, making it a premier destination for discerning travelers seeking an unforgettable getaway.

1963

Porto Vecchio hosts a vibrant marina, a bustling port with Roman origins and a series of beaches, all overlooked by a picturesque old town and a 16th century fortification.

Shamelessly seductive and fashionable, Porto-Vecchio is dubbed the Corsican St-Tropez, and it's no wonder. Sitting in a marvellous bay, it's the kind of place that lures French A-listers and wealthy tourists. Its picturesque backstreets, lined with restaurant terraces and designer shops, have charm in spades, and are presided over with grace by the photogenic ruins of an old Genoese citadel. Although there is no beach in the town proper, some of the island's best, and most famous, beaches are close by.

DAY 1

1963

PORTO-VECCHIO

If you are on a search for your corner of paradise, look no further- the intoxicating beauty of the pristine Roccapina beach will transport you to a place you have always imagined the Caribbean to be like.

Shaped by the natural elements, the lion is not the only guardian of the place. If you look around you will see many other shapes and strange characters. Near the lion is the Roccapina tower, one of the many Genoese towers scattered along the Corsican shoreline.

Wait for sunset and red-lit rocks, to watch something wonderful taking place.

DAY 2

1963

ROCCAPINA GULF

The grottos are yet another exclusivity that the Bonifacien coastline offers. Who hasn't visited the S'Dragulinu (little dragon) grotto and not see one of the not-to-be-missed attractions of Bonifacio? Certain grottos can be visited by boat, other smaller ones can be approached on a jet ski or kayak ... for those who prefer the lapping of the waves.

Bonifacio is a star attraction in Corsica, drawing visitors to marvel at its medieval houses precariously teetering on the edge of the imposing limestone cliffs. Bonifacio's Old Town, with a labyrinth of narrow streets and historic buildings, was built by the Genoese and is a fascinating place to wander around. Its natural harbour bears a striking resemblance to the home of the Laestrygonians referred to in Homer's Odyssey. Bonifacio also boasts a busy marina filled with impressive yachts and lined with chic bars, restaurants and hotels, enhancing the vibrancy of this fashionable coastal resort. Add to this the fact that Bonifacio is close to several idyllic, unspoiled Corsican beaches as well as staggeringly beautiful mountains, and you have a near perfect, varied holiday destination.

1963

BONIFACIO

They are some of the granitic islands that form the Archipelago of Lavezzi, classified Reinforced Protection Zone of the Nature Reserve.

The Iles de Lavezzi are a group of small, barren uninhabited granite islands, 10 km southeast off the coast of Bonifacio, with beautiful shell sand beaches and azure-colored sea. A protected paradise between sky and sea. The island beauty owes a great deal to the color palette from which they have been decorated. The turquoise and ultramarine of the water complementing the bright hues of the granite. A private dive with a qualified instructor to discover the astonishing diversity of the underwater life and scenery. Windsurfing kayak or paddle surf are nice options to do here.

1963

LAVEZZI ISLANDS

“A Sanctuary of Untamed Beauty”

Amidst the azure waters of the Strait of Bonifacio, between Sardinia and Corsica, lies Cavallo Island, a secluded gem radiating an aura of exclusivity and natural splendor. This captivating retreat, accessible only by boat, unveils a haven of pristine beaches, lush Mediterranean vegetation, and captivating granite rock formations. Steeped in history and adorned with remnants of ancient civilizations, Cavallo Island beckons discerning travelers seeking an escape to a sanctuary of tranquility and unspoiled beauty.

DAY 4

1963

CAVALLO

A Sardinian Gem Steeped in History and Natural Beauty

Emerging from the cerulean embrace of the Maddalena Archipelago, Caprera Island stands as a beacon of natural splendor and historical significance. This captivating Sardinian gem, renowned as the final retreat of Italian hero Giuseppe Garibaldi, unveils a mesmerizing tapestry of rugged landscapes, pristine beaches, and captivating historical sites.

DAY 5

1963

CAPRERA

A Majestic Island Unveiling Sardinia's Untamed Beauty

Emerging from the cerulean embrace of the Tyrrhenian Sea, Tavolara Island stands as a beacon of natural splendor and rugged beauty. This captivating Sardinian gem, renowned for its dramatic limestone cliffs and pristine marine ecosystem, beckons adventurous travelers seeking an escape to a sanctuary of unspoiled wilderness and breathtaking views.

1963

TAVOLARA

Where Luxury and Glamour Intertwine with Sardinian Charm

Amidst the captivating landscapes of Sardinia's Costa Smeralda, Porto Rotondo emerges as a haven of luxury, glamour, and Sardinian charm. This enchanting village, renowned for its vibrant nightlife, upscale restaurants, and breathtaking marina, beckons discerning travelers seeking an unforgettable Mediterranean escape.

DAY 7

1963

PORTO ROTONDO

A Glittering Gem of the Costa Smeralda

Nestled amidst the captivating landscapes of Sardinia's Costa Smeralda, Porto Cervo reigns as a haven of luxury and glamour. This enchanting village, renowned as the playground of the rich and famous, exudes an aura of sophistication and elegance, captivating visitors with its vibrant atmosphere, world-class amenities, and breathtaking natural beauty.
